December, 1994

DEP Announces Poster Contest Winners

Connecticut DEP has named 12 winners in the annual poster contest for 4th, 5th and 6th grade students. This year's theme was "Composting...A Recipe for a Healthy Earth!". A total of 71 posters were received. These posters represented the winners of contests held at each of the schools submitting entries. The Recycling Department would like to thank the judges: Kathy Dube, Recycling Coordinator for the Capitol region (CRCOG); Cheryl Burke, Director of CRRA's Trash Museum in Hartford; Ed Donovan, Recycling Coordinator for the Litchfield Hills Region; Kim Trella, DEP Recycling Coordinator; K.C. Alexander, DEP Compost Specialist and Meg Enkler, DEP Recycling Education Coordinator. All of the posters submitted were on display at the Legislative Office Building in Hartford during the month of November.

All twelve winners attended an awards ceremony held at the State Capitol on December 13, 1994. Many brought with them their families, teachers and school principals. The awards were presented by Lieutenant Governor Eunice Groark and DEP Chief Operating Officer Bob Moore. Each child received a plaque made out of post-consumer recycled plastic #2 HDPE (shampoo and detergent bottles). The winners are:

Steel Institute Produces New High School Curriculum

The Steel Recycling Institute has produced a new Curriculum called "Cycles For Science". This program is a high school curriculum designed to assist secondary teachers in meeting state and local goals for learning in Biology, Chemistry, General and Earth Science, and Physics. The development of Cycles for Science was motivated by teachers and non-school solid waste management educators who sought educational materials focusing on recycling, solid waste management and natural resources. The program takes these concepts and works them into a program of science topics and manufacturing subjects. For more information contact: The Steel Recycling Institute, 680 Andersen Drive, Pittsburg, PA 155220.

Video on Textile Recycling Available

Connecticut DEP has added "Textile Recycling Today and For The Future" to it's video loan library. This 10-minute video was produced by the Council for Textile Recycling. The video follows common household textiles through the "recycling loop", discussing important considerations for collection, the grading and sorting process, and potential markets for the collected items. This video is available on loan to Connecticut schools, cable access stations and municipal agencies. If you would like to borrow this video, please contact Meg Enkler, at (203) 424-3365.
